

Ad Intelligence — https://economictimes.indiatimes.com/defaultinterstitial.cms

Generated from 3 observed ad records. Observation share is the share of observed records, not market share.

Observations	Campaigns	Both devices	History changes
3	3	0	0

Executive summary

Most observed campaign records were associated with —. It accounted for 33.3% of observed records. 0 campaign(s) were observed on both desktop and mobile.

Campaign intelligence

Brand	Advertiser	Obs.	Share	First seen	Last seen
—	—	1	33.3%	2026-09-04T16:48:40Z	2026-09-04T16:48:40Z
—	—	1	33.3%	2026-09-04T16:48:40Z	2026-09-04T16:48:40Z
—	—	1	33.3%	2026-09-04T16:48:40Z	2026-09-04T16:48:40Z

Competitor / brand frequency

Brand	Observations	Share
No competitor/brand observations.	0	0.0%

Observed brand share

No data available

Device intelligence

Metric	Count
Desktop-only campaigns	0
Mobile-only campaigns	3
Campaigns on both devices	0

Campaign device distribution

Historical changes

Change type	Count
New Campaigns	0
Disappeared Campaigns	0
Creative Changes	0
Placement Changes	0
Device Targeting Changes	0
Network Changes	0
Cpm Changes	0

Advertiser and creative evidence

Campaign	Advertiser / brand	Formats	Networks	Above fold
campaign_90b48ea8232f5e2bb016	— / —	billboard_like	—	1
campaign_98590ac2509f785e90e9	— / —	billboard_like	—	1
campaign_edfb13b9180e4368a7e4	— / —	billboard_like	—	1

Identity is based on observable evidence such as advertiser/brand metadata, landing destinations, creative assets, placements, and ad-tech signals. OCR or visual signals alone do not prove advertiser identity. Missing evidence is reported as missing rather than inferred.